University of Arizona Health Sciences

The University of Arizona Health Sciences is the statewide leader in biomedical research and health professions training. The UArizona Health Sciences includes the Colleges of Medicine (Tucson and Phoenix), Nursing, Pharmacy, and the Mel and Enid Zuckerman College of Public Health, with main campus locations in Tucson and the growing Phoenix Biomedical Campus in downtown Phoenix. From these vantage points, Health Sciences reaches across the state of Arizona and the greater Southwest to provide cutting-edge health education, research and community outreach services. A major economic engine, Health Sciences employs nearly 5,000 people, has approximately 900 faculty members and garners $200 million in research grants and contracts annually. Health Sciences also is supported by almost 5,000 “Designated Campus Colleagues,” including nearly 3,000 faculty, who generously contribute their time, services and expertise without pay to help Health Sciences accomplish its mission.

On second reference, “UArizona Health Sciences.”

In subsequent references, “Health Sciences” is acceptable for both internal and external audiences.
