For four years, students at the University of Arizona College of Medicine - Tucson have worked toward "Match Day" - the day they learn where they will spend the next several years as resident-physicians. Members of the Class of 2019 will receive traditional Match Day letters indicating where they will complete their residency training. Match Day ceremonies are coordinated nationally to occur on the same date and time throughout the country.

It is the end of the journey – the end of medical school – and the beginning of where am I going to be practicing for the first time as a physician.
